Summary:

- danaco.net is selling a JTAG interface for USD 39. [Ref. 1]
- emulator1.com claims that their Phantom devices went down with the ECM #9. This hasn't been confirmed. [Ref. 2]
- The Pirates' Den site has a pretty good status of what is working and what is not after the ECM #9. [Ref. 3]
- Some hackers are talking about unloopers and DNASP010 hacking. These are rumors and nothing can be confirmed. It's worth a read though. [Ref. 4]
- Many so-called "gurus" on the forums do not post anymore for various reasons. A user on the Innermatrix forum suggests that maybe "Charlie" tries to divide to conquer by making people fight each other. Very good suggestion... [Ref. 5]
- Many hackers now advise people not to lock their TSOP anymore since it doesn't seem to really make a difference with the latest ECM. [Ref. 6]
- A new version of the DishEMU has been released as a fix for the ECM #9. Once again this proves that this is not a real emulator since it needs an update to fix an ECM. [Ref. 7]
- On a funny note, it seems that O.J. Simpson has been arrested with hacked DTV cards. [Ref. 8]
